About Valencia

Valencia is the third largest city in Spain with a population of 800,000, and is a Mediterranean port. Its charms come in part from its history. This is where El Cid faced the Moors and is the birthplace of the dish called paella. It has long been known for its beaches, beautiful Mediterranean Sea, and sunny climate. Valencia is now recognized for its unique cultural heritage, as shown in the world famous Las Fallas festival, and its jaw dropping architectural wonder the City of Arts and Sciences. The Las Fallas Festival is held in March and is becoming the most popular festival in Europe. Immense structures are constructed, paraded through the streets, and then burned. It is a few days of pure madness. The City of Arts and Sciences is the favorite destination for visitors in Valencia and is an entertainment-based cultural and architectural complex. This superb architectural space was designed by native son Santiago Calatrava and is an international mecca for architecture buffs. It includes museums, theaters, an aquarium and more. The city was founded as a Roman colony in 138 B.C. Its historic center is one of the largest in Spain, making Valencia one of Spain's most popular tourist destinations. It also attracts visitors for its climate, considered subtropical. It has a semi-arid climate with very mild winters and long warm summers.

The 15th century was a time of economic expansion, known as the Valencian Golden Age, in which culture and the arts flourished. At the end of the century the Silk Exchange building (a UNESCO World Heritage Site) was erected as the city became a commercial emporium that attracted merchants from all over Europe. Valencia was one of the most influential cities on the Mediterranean in the 15th and 16th centuries. Valencia's port is the biggest on the Mediterranean western coast. The city has hosted the America's Cup and the European Grand Prix of auto racing, an international tennis tournament and a champion tour of equestrian sports. Consequently, visitors and tourists from all around the world flock more and more numerous in all periods of the year and discover a thriving city, a cultural and historical richness, an atmosphere of calm and joy, peculiar to the Valencia region, a particularly mild and pleasant Mediterranean climate and a natural tendency to party. It's a great place to study Spanish ,and if you love paella, you'll definitely be in the right place.

Living with a Spanish family is the best way to become familiar with the Spanish lifestyle, get to know Spanish customs and practise the language. We select our families carefully so that our students feel completely at ease with them. Don't expect the host family houses to be luxurious, but they are comfortable and hospitable. Most of the families live close to the school and the average distance from the school is 25 minutes by public transport. Students can choose between three types of board (breakfast, half board or full board). Weekly laundry and cleaning is included.

• Apartments

This type of accommodation gives you the chance to live and share your experience with other students from the school. Each apartment has between two and seven bedrooms, some have shared bathrooms and others are en-suite. All apartments have a fully-equipped kitchen, a lounge with TV, a washing machine and an iron.

• Student Residences

We offer accommodation in our own student residences. Resiolé residences are boutique residences located within walking distance to the school and there is a good international atmosphere as they are exclusive for our students. We also offer other high standard residences located in the city.
